Hello from Griffin Theatre!

We are thrilled that you have chosen to make Ghosts of War a part of your classroom this year. This guide has been designed to extend your students’ experience of our production and make it a more meaningful and educational adventure for everyone involved.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Who is Griffin Theatre</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Going to the Theatre/Etiquette</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What are We Watching?/Synopsis</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>About the Author: Ryan Smithson</td>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A Timeline of Two Wars</td>
<td>7-9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What Did it Cost?</td>
<td>10</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Activity: Themes in the Play</td>
<td>11</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Activity: War Affects Everyone</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Activity: Family History</td>
<td>13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Activity: Send A Letter Abroad</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Activity: Tell Us What You Think</td>
<td>15</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Who is Griffin Theatre?

The mission of the Griffin Theatre Company is to create extraordinary and meaningful theatrical experiences for both children and adults by building bridges of understanding between generations that instill in its audience an appreciation of the performing arts. Through artistic collaboration, the Griffin Theatre Company produces literary adaptations, original work and classic plays that challenge and inspire with wit, style and compassion for the audience.

OTHER TOURING PRODUCTIONS

THE STINKY CHEESE MAN AND OTHER FAIRLY STUPID TALES
Based on the book by Jon Scieszka
Adapted by William Massolia

After Jack climbs up his beanstalk, he’s trapped by a man-eating Giant. Jack’s only means of escape is to keep the Giant entertained with stories. However, these fractured fairy tales aren’t what you think.

For grades Pre-K - 2

FRINDLE
Based on the book by Andrew Clements
Adapted by William Massolia

Some people might say that Nicholas Allen is a maverick. But his new language arts teacher, the notorious Mrs. Granger, thinks he’s a hooligan. Things spiral out of control when Nick’s simple class prank turns into a nationwide phenomenon.

For grades K - 5

LETTERS HOME
Adapted for the stage by William Massolia

Letters Home puts our country’s most recent wars in Iraq and Afghanistan center-stage, highlighting actual letters written by soldiers while serving in the Middle East. The production tells the story of patriotism and what is means to serve our country today from the perspective of the men, women and families who know best.

For grades 7 - 12
Before attending the play, please review the following tips with your students to ensure an enjoyable experience for everyone at the theatre.

DON’T:
- Put your feet up on the seat in front of you or kick the chair in front of you.
- Take pictures during the play: this is really distracting for the actors.
- Talk to the people next to you during the play.
- Get up and move around during the play.

DO:
- Laugh when the play is funny.
- Be attentive to the actors.
- Applaud during the play.
- Applaud when the play is over.
- Arrange to the theatre on time.
- Use the restroom before the play starts.
- Turn all electronics off before the play starts.
- Have fun!
GHOSTS OF WAR is a powerful memoir that will teach young people about the importance of volunteerism in their community and beyond. They will learn to not just think about the way they can change the world, or how they wish it could be, but to be a part of the change they wish to see in the world.

WHAT IS IT ABOUT?

Ryan Smithson was a typical 16-year-old high-school student until 9/11. “I’d thought about joining the military the moment I saw the towers fall,” he writes in this profoundly moving memoir. Smithson enlisted in the Army Reserve the following year and, a year into the Iraq war, was deployed to an Army engineer unit as a heavy-equipment operator. His poignant, often harrowing account, especially vivid in sensory details, chronicles his experiences in basic training and in Iraq. “Only after we have been completely destroyed can we begin to find ourselves,” Smithson writes of basic training, offering an unflinchingly honest portrait of the physical and psychological brutality of that experience. His account of his tour of duty in Iraq is no less compelling. He lucidly recounts the intensity of battle and the pain of losing comrades. For Smithson, the war is a source of personal enlightenment, and this memoir is a remarkable, deeply penetrating read that will compel teens to reflect on their own thoughts about duty, patriotism and sacrifice.

— Kirkus Starred Review
About the Author: Ryan Smithson

My parents were both originally from upstate New York, but my mom moved to Arizona when she was 15. My dad met her when he took a road trip at 19. They moved to Colorado, had me in 1985, and had my little sister, Regan, in 1987. The following year, we moved back to New York. After moving around a bit, we settled in the quiet suburban town of East Greenbush.

In high school, I dated a young woman, Heather, who would change my life forever. We had our stereotypical make-up/breakup teenage relationship for awhile, but that rocky start would turn into a solid foundation.

Another decision in high school would likewise change the course of my life. During my freshman year, after telling a friend how sports had always been tough for me because I was smaller than my teammates, he suggested I try wrestling since I'd wrestle people my own size. The first day of practice, I fell in love with the oldest sport in the world and wrestled every year thereafter. Wrestling gave me confidence, discipline, and a desire to challenge myself. These attributes gave me both success on the mat and as a soldier.

I joined the military at age 17 in response to the September 11 terrorist attacks. Not wanting to completely devote myself to the military, I joined the army reserve as a heavy equipment operator. After completing basic training, I was soon shipped overseas to Iraq. The young woman who’d been by my side thus far became my wife, and our “honeymoon” was a year long, spent on opposite sides of the planet.

After coming home from Iraq, I majored in criminal justice at Hudson Valley Community College. During these two years, I held many part-time jobs. My favorite, hands down, was at a before- and after-school program for kids. It was great for college and full of the kind of humor you can only find with growing human beings.

While in college, mostly between semesters, I wrote my memoirs of Iraq, and sold them to Harper Collins near the end of my fourth semester. After graduating, Heather and I began looking for a house. Since I needed a job that could pay a mortgage, I said good-bye to the kids and found full-time work at the American Red Cross. I am currently enrolled part-time at Empire State College, working on my bachelor’s degree in history. Heather and I bought our first home in August 2008, and now life is filled with home-improvement projects. We couldn’t be happier!

-Ryan Smithson
Throughout the entirety of this study guide, keep an eye on the bottom of the page. There, you'll find important dates and events that influenced the course of the Iraq and Afghanistan wars.

The Iraq events can be tracked in blue.
The Afghanistan events can be tracked in red.

The start of both wars can be attributed to the events of September 11th, 2001. Hijackers took control of four commercial airplanes and crashed them into the World Trade Center Towers in New York, the Pentagon outside Washington, D.C., and a Pennsylvania field, killing thousands. Days later, U.S. officials said Osama bin Laden, the Saudi Arabian exile believed to be hiding in Afghanistan, was the prime suspect in the attack.

---

September 18th, 2001 – President George W. Bush signs into law a joint resolution authorizing the use of force against those responsible for attacking the United States on 9/11.

October 2001 – Following unanswered demands that the Taliban turn over bin Laden, U.S. and British forces launch air strikes against targets in Afghanistan as a part of Operation Enduring Freedom. American warplanes start to bomb Taliban targets and bases reportedly belonging to the al–Qaida network. The Taliban proclaim they are ready for jihad.

November 2001 – After weeks of intense fighting with Taliban troops, the Northern Alliance enters Kabul. The retreating Taliban flee southward toward Kandahar.

December 2001 – The Taliban surrenders Kandahar and flees further into the mountains. Hamid Karzai is sworn in as the leader of the interim government in Afghanistan. Bin Laden escapes the Tora Bora Caves, after having been tracked there by Afghani forces.

January 2002 – In President George W. Bush’s state of the union speech, he identifies Iraq, along with Iran and North Korea as an “axis of evil.” He vows that the U.S. “will not permit the world’s most dangerous regimes to threaten us with the world’s most destructive weapons.”

March 2002 – Operation Anaconda, the first major ground assault and the largest operation since Tora Bora, is launched. Nearly two thousand U.S. and one thousand Afghan troops battle the militants.

June 2002 – The Afghanistan grand council elects U.S.–backed Hamid Karzai as interim leader. Karzai chooses the members of his government who will serve until 2004, when the government is required to organize elections.

October 2002 – The U.S. Congress authorizes President Bush to use military force against Iraq.

November 2002 – U.N. weapons inspections resume inside Iraq.

March 2003 – The U.S.–led coalition invades Iraq.

May 2003 – During a briefing with reporters in Kabul, Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld declares an end to “major combat.” The announcement coincides with President George W. Bush’s “mission accomplished” declaration of an end to fighting in Iraq.
Timeline Continued

May 2003 – The Coalition Provisional Authority is established to rule Iraq. Economic sanctions against Iraq are lifted.

August 2003 – U.N. envoy and 22 others are killed when a truck bomb destroys U.N. offices in Baghdad.

December 2003 – Saddam Hussien is caught near Tikrit.

January 2004 – An assembly of 502 Afghan delegates agrees on a constitution for Afghanistan, creating a strong presidential system intended to unite the country’s various ethnic groups.

March 2004 – Interim Constitution – A temporary constitution for Iraq is signed.

October 2005 – Saddam Hussien’s trial for crimes against humanity begins in Baghdad.

May 2006 – Nouri–al–Mailki becomes Prime Minister of Iraq.

July 2006 – Violence increases across the country during the summer months, with intense fighting erupting in the south in July. The number of suicide attacks quintuples from 27 in 2005 to 139 in 2006, while remotely detonated bombings more than double, to 1,677.

November 2006 – Republicans lose control of the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives.

December 2006 – Saddam Hussein is hung after being found guilty by an Iraqi tribunal. Video of the execution appears online.

January 2007 – President Bush announces 20,000 more troops will be sent to Iraq.

May 2007 – President Bush vetoes legislation from Congress funding the Iraq War but imposing deadlines for American withdrawal.

May 2007 – A notorious Taliban military commander, Mullah Dadullah, is killed in a joint operation by Afghan, U.S., and NATO forces in the south of Afghanistan.

September 2007 – Sunni leader Abdul Sattar Abu Risha is killed in Iraq just ten days after meeting with President Bush.

February 2008 – Turkey launches ground operations in northern Iraq to battle Kurdish separatists.

April 2008 – General David Petraeus delivers highly anticipated briefing to Congress.

April 2008 – General David Petraeus is chosen as the next leader of U.S. Central Command. General Raymond Odierno tapped to take charge in Iraq.

September 2008 – U.S. forces give control of the largest Iraqi province to the Iraqi military.

September 2008 – General Raymond Odierno becomes commander in Iraq.

December 2008 – Dozens dead and many more wounded in bomb attacks.

January 2009 – United States gives control of airspace and Green Zone to Iraq.

February 2009 – New U.S. President Barack Obama announces plans to send seventeen thousand more troops to the war zone. Obama reaffirms campaign statements that Afghanistan is the more important U.S. front against terrorist forces.
February 2009 – President Obama announces his intention to withdraw most American troops out of Iraq by August 31, 2010. As many as 50,000 troops will remain there for smaller missions and to train Iraqi soldiers.

March 2009 – President Obama announces a new strategy for the war effort, linking success in Afghanistan to a stable Pakistan.

May 2009 – An American soldier being treated at a counseling center in Baghdad kills 5 fellow servicemen. The shooter, Sergeant John M. Russell, is serving his third tour in Iraq, and had been ordered recently to undergo psychological counseling and relinquish his gun.

June 2009 – U.S. troops completed their withdrawal from Iraqi cities, including Baghdad and transferred the responsibility of securing the cities to Iraqi troops.

July 2009 – U.S. Marines launch a major offensive in southern Afghanistan. The offensive, involving four thousand Marines, is launched in response to a growing Taliban insurgency in the country’s southern.

August 2009 – U.S. forces are to number between sixty thousand and sixty–eight thousand.

November 2009 – After more than two months of uncertainty following a disputed presidential election on August 20, President Hamid Karzai wins another term.

December 2009 – President Obama announces a major escalation of the U.S. mission. In a nationally televised speech, the president commits an additional thirty thousand forces to the fight, on top of the sixty–eight thousand in place. For the first time in the eight–year war effort, a time frame is put on the U.S. military presence, as Obama sets July 2011 as the start of a troop drawdown.
What did it Cost?

The Iraq and Afghanistan Wars by the Numbers

Below are some key statistics about our most recent wars. The data is taken primarily from think-tanks and media sources.

TIME

The War in Iraq: 3,193 Days

The War in Afghanistan: 4,109 Days
(as of January 6th, 2012)

FINANCIAL COST

The War in Iraq: $806,000,000,000

The War in Afghanistan: $1,200,000,000,000
(as of July 31st, 2012)

TROOPS

The Wars in Iraq and Afghanistan: 2,333,972 troops total served (August 2011)

The War in Afghanistan: Approximately 68,000 troops (as of October 2012)

CASUALTIES

The War in Iraq: 4,422 Americans Killed, Close to 30,000 Wounded

The War in Afghanistan: 2,165 Americans Killed, 17,644 Wounded (as of Jan. 2013)

CIVILIAN CASUALTIES

The War in Iraq: Between 103,674 and 113,265

The War in Afghanistan: 13,009 (Between 2007 and June 2012)
Themes in the Play

Activity

Now that you’ve seen the play and read the book, can you identify some themes that you heard in the play? How about Volunteerism? Patriotism? Sacrifice? Write a bit about the theme you identify, give some examples of when you heard that theme and explain why you feel its universal to all wars.

Next, identify some themes and issues that you believe are unique to Ryan’s personal story considering what you heard throughout the play. Write about that personal theme of your choosing, where in the play you heard it and why you think it’s unique to Ryan’s story.
When Congress decides to go to war, who does it affect? Our troops? Federal agencies? You? Your family? Make a spider-web with the Iraq war at the center and detail who you think is involved. Remember to think about many different factors, including the economy, policy issues, but, most importantly the personal stories like Ryan’s.
So many American families have veterans among their ranks. Do you? Do some research and find out if any of your family members served in any of our country’s wars. Did anyone you’re close to serve in the War in Iraq or Afghanistan? How about in World War II or even earlier?
Ask your family members about any stories they have and if anyone you know ever wrote any letters home, like the ones in the story. If you find any, bring them into class along with any pictures and mementos that you’re able to share. Read the letters together in class.

Griffin Theatre would love to read any letters that you’d be willing to share with us. Please make copies and send them to us!
Griffin Theatre
3711 N. Ravenswood Avenue, #145
Chicago, IL, 60613
Receive letters from home is just as important to our troops’ well-being as writing letters. Our country thousands of troops stationed around the globe and they would all like to hear from you. Please consider writing a letter to a soldier currently serving our country. You can send the letters through A Million Thanks! Follow the URL below to find out how:

www.amillionthanks.org

Want to do more? Adopt a soldier and send him or her care packages through Operation Adopt-A-Soldier or Operation Gratitude here! Details can be found here:

www.operationadoptasoldier.org
www.operationgratitude.com
Tell Us What You Think

Activity

What do you think of the War on Terror?

What did you think of GHOSTS OF WAR?

We would love to hear from you! Send us a letter with your thoughts, opinions and reviews to:

Griffin Theatre
3711 N. Ravenswood Avenue, #145
Chicago, IL, 60613

You can also tell your local elected officials about your opinions! Use the link below to find out who your congressman is and how to contact him or her! www.house.gov/representatives/find